

Video gaming #1

I think gaming is addictive because my brother, Xavier is always on our playstation. Also I'm always on the playstation and the Wii I'm addicted. It's also hard for my sister not to be addicted because I'm a gamer so is Xavier and so is our dad.

After I watched the videos,
your brain on video games, and
How video games effect behavior.

I learned that if you play
video games that you problem solve faster. Also, I learned that the average age for a gamer is 33 years of age. I also learned that video gamers have better eyesight
than those who don't play.

NOW I think that video games are good for you and your mind. I say this because Daphne Bavelier, cognitive scientist says gamers who play 10 to 15 hours a week have better eyesight than those who don't play. She also says that gamers are able to read fine print and tell different levels of grey. I know these aren't direct quotes but they are summarization of what she said.
