

I thought that videogames were bad. but now I think videogames are good. because Daphne Beyerli's video showed me differently. Now I say. "I agree". She said videogamers have more attention. And gamers who play 10-15hrs have better eyesight than those who don't. And they can see some shades of grey. ^{and small print} and violent games do NOT lead to attention problems. Some games increase your attention.

I thought video games were bad. because our first video we watched gave evidence for the videogames to be bad. like

- ① "Some people think violent games make violent people". "the average age for a gamer is 33 years old!" and
- ② "Playing games to the max or bingeing is bad for your eyesight."
