

Other than your health, mentally and physically, video games can make you become addicted. Addiction can cause problems too. It can cause laziness. Also if you get too addicted to the games then it can cause you to do poorly in school. You don't want to get a bad grade on your next test, and have your parents take away your video games, do you? Do you know what else it can lead to? Well, it can lead to unhealthiness and all the problems it can cause. Boys you better watch out because researcher, Douglas Gentile, found "boys are 4x as likely to be addicted than girls."

Why?
How?
Explain?

Excellent Cite source

like not doing your homework on the directions given.

good transition

My last but not least reason video games are bad for you is that some games has inappropriate content. Many parents do not want their kids or teens hearing the explicit language. Some games even have content that isn't appropriate or good for young kids. In this day and age all you hear young boys, some girls talking about is how many soldiers they killed or the weapons they use on the game because of the violence and ^{Gore} gore. If some of these kids started hearing those words, seeing the content, and playing this violent then they might start doing things like